

Instructor: Date:

Learner: Regional Branch:

Program: Center:

CONTENT

- Let's Start! • Let's Explore! • Let's Practice! • Extension Activity • Target Words • Learning Points

Let's Start!

Pronunciation Spot: You look like you've seen a ghost!

Learning Outcome

Describe complicated or unusual events in the past through a wider range of B1 language in both work and social contexts.

Ask your partner:

- Do you believe in coincidences? Why or why not?
- What is the strangest thing that has ever happened to you?

Can Do Statements

- I can talk about coincidences, strange events, and superstitions.
- I can say and pronounce words like renew and reward.
- I can use proper intonation when I'm sure and when I'm checking.

Let's Explore!

Could you* remind me again about what happened?

* When people pronounce "you" in questions, they often reduce the sound to ya.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

- Peter: Morning, Sally. You'll never believe this!
- Sally: Hi, Peter. Wow, you look like you've seen a ghost!
- Peter: Well, I just saw a dog that looks exactly like the one I helped return to its owner last week!
- Sally: Could you remind me again about that?
- Peter: I was walking to work when I noticed a poster for a missing golden retriever. The owner was offering a $500 reward for it. I thought I could use that money to renew my gym membership, so ...
- Sally: You've been going a lot, haven't you?
- Peter: Mhmm, almost every day. You don't go anymore, do you?
- Sally: Yes, I do! I've regained a lot of muscle mass, you know.
- Peter: Anyway, I saw the poster and then not ten minutes later, I saw the dog!
- Sally: The missing retriever?
- Peter: Yeah, so I called the number on the poster and met the owner to return the dog.
- Sally: You didn't take the reward, did you?
- Peter: Well, the owner seemed like a nice old lady, and I didn't feel right taking the reward ...
- Sally: Oh, Peter. You have such a good heart! So, what happened this morning?
- Peter: I was walking down here to meet you and out of the blue I heard a dog barking ... I went to check and guess what?
- Sally: It was the same dog, wasn't it?
- Peter: Not only that, but it was barking early in the morning ...
- Sally: So?
- Peter: You know the superstition about dogs barking early in the morning, right? It's bad luck, you know ...

Let's Practice!

It feels really good when you know you've done the right thing.

Instructions: Match a half from the left to one from the right to make coherent sentences. Read the sentences aloud. Check your pronunciation with your instructor.

- | | |
|--|--|
| 1. I was walking to work when | () dog to its owner last week |
| 2. The owner was offering a | () renew my gym membership. |
| 3. I've regained a lot of | () muscle mass, you know. |
| 4. I thought I could use that money to | () I noticed a poster for a missing golden retriever. |
| 5. I helped return a | () $500 reward for it. |

Let's Practice!

You want me to help, don't you?

Instructions: Complete the sentences with the corresponding words. Read the sentences aloud to your class. Check your pronunciation and intonation with your instructor.

- haven't you
- Not only that
- did you
- Anyway
- was it
- you know

1. It's bad luck, _____...
2. _____, I saw the poster and then not ten minutes later, I saw the dog!
3. _____, but it was barking early in the morning.
4. It wasn't the same dog, _____?
5. You've been going there a lot, _____?
6. You didn't take the reward, _____?

Extension Activity

Find as many re+ verb words as you can and write sentences.

Instructions: Complete the following steps. Fill in the Self-Assessment.

- Go online and find at least 6 more *re+*verb words in an English dictionary.
- Read the definitions and write them down.
- Write your own example sentence with each of the six new words.
- Read the sentences aloud to a partner using careful pronunciation.

Self-Assessment

Yes

No

I find new *re+*verb words.

☐ ☐

I read the definitions.

☐ ☐

I write my own example sentences.

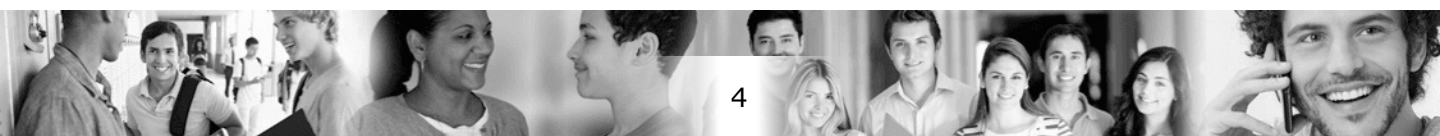

☐ ☐

I say and pronounce words like renew.

☐ ☐

Target Words

- You look like you've seen a ghost! (expression): used to mean someone looks scared or shocked Example: Hi, Peter. Wow! You look like you've seen a ghost!
- You'll never believe this! (expression): used to call people's attention to a particular subject, especially if something is hard to believe e.g. You'll never believe this! I saw a dog that looked like the one I helped find its owner.
- reward (noun): an amount of money offered for finding lost property or a criminal e.g. The owner was offering a $500 reward for the dog.
- golden retriever (noun): a breed of dog whose golden fur is thick, and wavy; known for retrieving objects e.g. I noticed a poster for a missing golden retriever.
- to renew (verb): to extend the duration of a contract or a licence e.g. I thought I could use that money to renew my gym membership.
- out of the blue (expression): used to mean that something happens unexpectedly e.g. I was walking to meet you and out of the blue I heard a dog barking.
- to bark (verb): for a dog, to produce a short, sharp cry e.g. I heard a dog barking in the middle of the night.
- superstition (noun): an irrational or inexplicable belief in something e.g. You know the superstition about dogs barking early in the morning.
- to regain (verb): to get something you have lost back, especially an ability or quality e.g. Yes, I do! I've regained a lot of muscle mass.

Learning Points

The Prefix Re-

A prefix is placed before a root word to make a new word. There are many prefixes in English.

A common prefix is re- which means back or again.

When you add a prefix to a word, it changes the meaning of the root word. Often, it is easy to figure out the meaning of the word if you know the meaning of the root word.

For example:

start ---> restart (to start again)

do ---> redo (to do again)

turn ---> return (to turn back)

When you say words with a prefix, you usually put the stress on the syllable after the prefix.

Say these words out loud. Think about the pronunciation as you do.

return

renew

reward regain remind retriever

There are some words that begin with the prefix re- that are historic, and so the base word is sometimes difficult to recognize. For example:

re+award = reward (award again)

re+ mind = remind (bring to mind again)

re+trieve = retrieve (from the French trove to find - find again).

Examples:

- I just saw a dog that looks exactly like the one that I helped return to its owner last week!
- Could you remind me again about that?
- I was walking to work when I noticed a poster for a missing golden retriever.
- I thought I could use that money to renew my gym membership.

Learning Points

Intonation: When You Are Sure vs. When You Are Checking

You use falling intonation (your voice goes down) to signal that you believe what you said is correct.

You use rising intonation (your voice goes up) when you are checking, because you are not sure if you are correct.

These two sentences are the same, but they have slightly different meanings as they are said differently, depending on the speaker's intention.

Try reading them out loud. Put falling intonation at the end of the first one. Put rising intonation at the end of the second one.

1. You didn't take the reward, did you? ↘

I'm sure you didn't take the reward. I know you didn't.

2. You didn't take the reward, did you? ↗

I'm not sure if you took the reward. I'm checking to see if I'm right.

Try saying these sentences with both rising and falling intonation:

You've been going a lot, haven't you?

You don't go anymore, do you?

It was the same dog, wasn't it?

Remember that :

- Yes/No questions have a rising intonation, like: Could you send me the information again, please? ↗

- Information questions and statements have a falling intonation, like: Where is it? ↘ and That's not what I meant. ↘

